Buckingham

Interest in the contests for the Democratic nominations grow and in certain quarters it is being suggested that the county committee decide to call a convention to nominate the candidates for county officers instead of holding a primary in August.

Following is a list of the members of the committee who were elected on November 6, 1925, except two who have died since then and one who has left the county: A. J. Terrill, chairman; A. H. Williams, A. Rolfe Smith, C. H. Agee, G. H. Elcan, L. P. Gilliam, L. P. Gills, E. W. Hubbard, G. L. Morris, John A. Twyman, W. A. Wood, J. W. Layne, Nelson Twyndall, I. T. Steger and N. M. Gregory.

Col. A. J. Terrill and Dr. P. E. Tucker have announced themselves candidates for the Legislature for the district composed of Appomattox and Buckingham counties. It is also reported that L. P. Gilliam is being urged to run for same office.

Hon. Claud Wood, the present representative will be a candidate for attorney for Commonwealth. Col. Hubbard, the incumbent, whose health isbad has not announced himself and it is not known whether he will again offer for the place.

Dr. G. L. Morris incumbent treasurer is opposed by H. E. Griffin who is at present the sheriff of the county. Charles Camden, commissioner in district No. 2 and Pomp Wood commissioner in district No. 1, are each candidates to fill the position of commissioner for the whole county under the new order of things.

For the office of sheriff there are said to be three aspirants, and for the district offices especially for the office of supervisor in certain districts the contests may be close.

The Democratic party is divided in factions and is difficult to form an idea as to who will be chosen for any office, this state of things was brought about by several things in which the woman's suffrage and prohibition had their share of influence.

Farmers Insitute

The farmers all day institute was held here Thursday under the direction of County Agent Hudgins and was well attended by men and women and many school children belonging to the various 4-H Clubs throughout the county. The speakers who addressed the meeting were Professor Hutchison, Professor Dean and Professor Patteson, all of Blacksburg, and also Superintendent Burke, of Appomattox. The visitors were guests of the Appomattox High School at the home economics cottage for dinner under the direction of Mrs. Bloxton and the senior girls of the school.

One of the special features of the program was a milk testing demonstratien given by the boys of the agricultural school under the direction of Professor Wilkins. It consisted of a practical testing of milk all done by the students themselves.

Practical talks on chickens, soil, crops and live stock were made.

Ministers Resolute

At a meeting held March 2, 1927, at Presbyterian Church here.

WHEREAS, It is generally known that in distant states and cities of the United States, large majorities of the people, some of whom are Christians in name, have already yielded, both in theory and in practice to the European or Continental idea of the Lord's day, and;

WHEREAS, This idea of Sunday, which, is nothing more than a holiday with every kind of commercialized sport, joy riding, picnicing, pleasure seeking and every kind of sinful indulgence, is ever drawing near to our own fair state and county and thereby emptying or threatening to empty the pews of our Churches and Sundap Schools and endangering the morals and lives of all our people, young and old.

Therefore, be it resolved:

First, That we, the pastors of all the churches in Appomattox County, charged with the moral and spiritual leadership of the people, do hereb deplore the growing disregard for the Lord's Holy Day and call on our good people to stand firm in their respect for and their observance of this day.

Resolved Secondly, That the officials in all our churches, Sunday schools and young people's societies be and hereby are called upon to set an example in this regard that will be worthy of emulation by those who look to them for guidance.

Adopted by the Evangelical Ministerial Union of Appomattox County, Virginia.

Concurred in by Baptist Ministers of Appomattox Association.

STONEWALL

Miss Frances Stratt n of R. W. M. College, spent the week-end at home.

Mrs. Dunkley Gunter was called to Lynchburg Tuesday to the bedside of Mr. Gunter, who has flu.

Miss Annie Alvis, of Farmville, was a week-end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Alvis.

Mr. and Mrs W. M. Drinkard and Earl Drinkard, of Lynchburg, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Drinkard.

Willie Whitten, of Lynchburg, spent several days recently at home recuperating from a spell of La Grip.

Misses Maragrite and Mary Connor, of Lynchburg, were week-end guests in the home of Mr. S. E. Anderson.

Mesdames W. H. Drinkard and C. M. Stratton visited Mrs. D. A. Christian in Appomattox Wednesday.

Fire Warden C. T. Drinkard attended a meeting of fire wardens in Appomattox Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ashby Ander son and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stratton, of Lynchburg, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Stratton.

PAMPLIN

Rev. W. G. Boggs preached an excellent sermon here Sunday, to a large and appreciative audience.

The Christian Endeavor recently organized at Presbyterian Church is growing in numbers and interest, interesting programs are being rendered. They are planning a social for the young people on Friday night.

Miss Janie Gilliam, of Lynchburg, was visiting her father, Mr. Jim Gilliam, Sunday.

We are glad that Mrs. Wiley Richardson, and daughter, Grace, are out again after an illness.

Mrs. Lillie Moses visited her sister, Mrs. E. G. Harvey, at Evergreen, on Tuesday.

Mr. E. F. Wingfield, of Phenix, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Harvey, visited his daughter, Mrs. Lizzie Steine at Monroe on Sunday. Mrs. Steine is improving after a long illness.

We are glad to hear Mrs. Johnie Cole is improving.

Mr. S. F. Womack came home from the hospital in Charlotte, N. C., and is improving.

One of the biggest social events of the season took place at the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rice and Mrs. Rice and Mrs. Curtis Harvey were joint hostesses at a Rook party. Their home was beautifully decorated in flowers and ferns with pink and blue baskets for each person filled with candy. The guest list included most of the rook players being about 40 in number. A most delightful salad course was served. This event will be long remembered by those present.

SEE MENACE IN FOOT-AND-MOUTH DISEASE

Virus Found Too Powerful for Experiments.

Washington.—The highly infectious nature of foot and mouth disease virus, the extremely small size of its active agent, and its ability to escape identification as to its true nature are the outstanding results of the year's study by the American commission which went to Europe in 1923 to study foot-and-mouth disease and is preparing its official report.

The commission comprises Dr. Harry W. Schoening of the United States bureau of animal industry, Dr. Jacob Traum of the University of California, and Dr. Peter K. Olitsky of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research. By a special act of congress the commission was empowered to conduct studies of foot-and-mouth disease abroad with the hope of obtaining information to be used in suppressing most effectively any outbreaks of the malady that may occur in the United States.

The dangers of experimenting with the foot-and-mouth disease virus in the United States were considered too great to permit studies in this country. On the other hand, official European countries where the disease is constantly present welcomed the investigations of the American commission and gave assistance.

Virus Extremely Active.

Though highly technical, the findings of the commission show briefly that the virus of foot-and-mouth disease is extremely active and dangerous. It produced the disease experimentally when diluted as much as one part in ten million. The organism is too small to be seen by the most powerful microscopes. As further proof of its minuteness, the investigators found that centrifugal force for two hours at from 2,500 to 3,000 revolutions a minute failed to throw the organism out of solution.

The resistance of foot-and-mouth disease virus to strong antiseptics also proved to be surprisingly great. Whereas 60 per cent alcohol kills ordinary bacteria within a minute it failed to destroy the virus of foot-and-mouth disease in 26 hours. The virus also showed abnormal resistance to other antiseptics, such as acetone, bichloride of mercury and cresol.

Reporting that foot-and-mouth disease is one of the most contagious diseases known, the commission further notes that in hay or in garden soil it remained living for at least 25 days and the infective agent may persist for longer periods under favorable conditions for its protection.

Bacteria Baffles Cultivation.

The commission's work included studies of immunity and the susceptibility of many kinds of experimental animals. The causative agent of foot-and-mouth disease appears to be separate from any of the known kinds of bacteria of the ordinary species and has baffled artificial cultivation by any means now available. The commission's attempts to produce an active artificial immunity against foot-and-mouth disease were unsuccessful.

Highly technical studies showed that the electric charge of the virus is positive and that the electric charge influenced the passage of the virus through certain types of filter materials. This group of studies, though showing the active agent of the virus to be ex remely small, indicated that it is not of a fluid character.

In cattle studies, active virus was found in the saliva before any lesions of the disease were observed. Other workers also have reported the ability of animals in the fever stage to infect others before external signs are seen. The earthworm could not be implicated as a carrier.

A close scrutiny of methods used in Europe for controlling foot-and-mouth disease by rigid quarantine showed that even the severest form of quarantine is relatively ineffective compared with the prompt slaughter of diseased and exposed animals, as practiced in the United States.

European officials with whom the American scientists discussed methods of combatting foot-and-mouth disease agreed that, when its extent is limited to a small percentage of the animals, the slaughter and clean-up method is the only effective one, besides being the most economical.

Missouri Man Captures Coon With His Hands

Linn, Mo.—William B. Niiges of near Linn decries the use of dogs, guns, and axes in capturing coons. He uses his bare hands and has had a lot of luck in his new venture. Niiges, when he spies a coon in a tree, rapidly scales it and grabs the aforesaid coon by the tail. Niiges says the coon is at a considerable disadvantage in that position and cannot put up much of a fight. It is just a matter of a few moments to kill him.

BOLL WEEVIL CONTROL METHODS approved by State & Government Experts

When the boll weevils come from their winter quarters after a fast of several months they lose no time getting to feeding grounds. As their choice, and virtually only "dish," is cotton, they quickly fly to the nearest field and begin devouring the plants. Feeding may take place on the seed leaves or the regular leaves if any have developed.

The insects usually are found in the extreme tip of the plant. If feeding happens to take place at the point where the two seed leaves branch the plant frequently dies, but feeding elsewhere has little effect on the plant's growth. Feeding continues in these places until squares appear when they attack them. As long as there is an abundance of squares not punctured the developing bolls are practically free of injury, but when the weevils puncture a majority of the squares the insects begin attacking the bolls.

As long as the female weevils have nothing to eat but leaves they show no tendency to lay eggs, as they must obtain food from squares before the eggs develop. After the eggs begin to develop, practically all the food of the females is obtained from the squares as they bore the egg cavities. The male weevil, however, remains on a square for some time, puncturing it over and over until it begins to become dry.

Weevils regularly take moisture from dew or rain drops on the leaves and other parts of the plants.

The first sign of injury of cotton squares is what is called flaring. This is the spreading outward of the three leaflike divisions of the shuck enclosing the square. The square also turns yellow at this time. Flaring usually takes place from two to three days after the egg has been placed in the square. Virtually all squares which have been fed upon or have eggs placed in them drop to the ground. Usually it is about a week from the time a square receives an egg until it falls.

Tests have shown that the weevil prevents Sea Island or Egyptian cotton to any of the upland American varities, but among the latter no choice is shown.

The boll weevil is sometimes found on plants other than cotton and has been observed in okra blooms. However, it has never been known to place eggs in other than cotton squares and efforts to force it to do so have failed.

Further information may be obtained from the county agent, state college of agriculture or the National Boll Weevil Control Association, Room 220 Whitney building, New Orleans

Prince of Wales Makes Yellow Shirts Possible

London.—Yellow hunting shirts, such as gentleman farmers wore during the Seventeenth century, are the big event of the present English hunting season.

London shopkeepers, who had to dust ancient boxes of the now revived style to meet the demand, are thanking the prince of Wales for the opportunity to unload what they have thought to be obsolete stock.

Ever since the prince appeared at the royal princes' hunt from Melton Mowbray in one of the skinfitting garments, shopkeepers have had continual streams of the prince's fashion followers demanding "yellow shirts."

Fair Profit

New York.—By air comes a story from London of a woman who paid 60 cents for a book and sold it for $10,200. It was a first edition of John Bunyan's "Book for Boys and Girls."

Cattle Eat Our Mill Feeds

(Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation)

Two-fifths of our enormous wheat crop is annually left on the farm to be fed to farm animals, according to the findings of the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. In addition, 28% of the wheat that is shipped off or 17% of the total wheat crop comes back to the farm as mill feeds, where it is made into human food in the form of meat.

Mill feeds are a valuable and important feed item, especially in the dairy section. Cattle consume on an average 44.2% of all mill feeds. These are rich in protein and used in connection with corn and tankage make a balanced ing ration. Sears has the next greatest consumer of mill feeds, 41.5%. Besides, 5.6% goes to horses, 5% to poultry and 3.7% to sheep.

Mr. Julian Schaeffer, of Cincinnati, is now on his river farm, looking after the erection of his handsome new home. We are glad to have Mr. Schaeffer with us and like other retired gentlemen, he settles in Appomattox where taxes are low and living conditions are inviting.

Mr. Custis Fleshman, of W. Va., was here last week with his contractor and located a site on the ancestral tract in town for a handsome brick house. We are glad Mr. Fleshman decided to come to his boyhood home after retiring from the active business world. Those who know Appomattox best are always friends and boosters.

Sheriff McKinney and Deputy Sheriff Connor went to Bent Creek today and searched the house of Mrs. Nannie McCormick and found three gallons of corn whiskey. Mrs. McCormick was arrested and brought to Appomattox and bailed for her appearance at the April term of court.

Mr. Joel Morris' team ran away Wednesday here and scared up traffic on MainStreet. Frightened by passing freight trains the double wagon team ran at wild speed until it stuck the dead man opposite depot when the team was thrown and friends of Mr. Morris took charge of it. Eggs were scattered along the street, and strangely enough the team was not damaged and no one was hurt.

Flapper Grandmother was presented to a large audience Tuesday evening at the school auditorium here. The home talent showed up like stars and the Parent Teachers Association is vated much praise by our people for the splendid entertainment. Drinking fountains will be installed. Appomattox flappers are considering the introduction of the play on the stage at Farmville. Little Hilda Wagers and Nellie Payne did the Charleston step like artists. Its the best show off the road.

Walter Harvey and Sam Wheeler were arrested Monday by Sheriff McKinney, Duvall Conner and Constable Pulliam. The officers set up a careful watch and after a long and patient vergil were rewarded by the appearance of the operators on the scene who started up the crude plant which consisted of gas barrel and worm. After the fire was out the sheriff closed in on the operation and Harvey and Wheeler attempted to escape, but were captured by the sheriff's deputies. They were bailed in the sum of $1,000 each for their appearance at the April term of Circuit Court with Jno. Bolden as surety. All of the parties are colored.

Yesterday at the Courthouse the fire wardens of Appomattox held a meeting with District Warden J. P. Andrews presiding. The following Appomattox wardens were present: W. J. LeGrand, Clayton Drinkard, L. M. Drinkard, Thomas King, W. S. Walton, Tom Conner, Martin Covington, Thornton Fore, Wert Woodson, Joe Paulett, Jesse Dickerson, and Jim Driskill. Absent wardens were: Courtney Harvey, Howard Harding and Benny Wheeler. Mr. Andrews addressed the wardens and plans were made for the years' work. In the afternoon Mr. Andrews addressed the school in the auditorium on the subject of fire prevention at work. Mr. LeGrand warns people to be careful in burning brush and old fields.

Clem H. Hammersly

Clem Hammersley, 76, formerly of Charlotte, died at his home in Richmond Monday. He was born in Charlotte, January 13, 1851. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. S. E. Green, of Appomattox; and two brothers, L. H. Hammersley, of Charlotte and R. W. Hammersley, of Richmond.

Peters—Driskill

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Driskill, of Lynchburg, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mayme Rosser Driskill to J. Raymond Peters. The ceremony was performed last Thursday at the parsonage of the Liberty Baptist Church here by the pastor, Rev. W. M. Thompson

Jones—Scruggs

A wedding of much interest was that of Miss FrancesScruggs to Charles Edward Jones, which took place Saturday at the Presbyterian manse, Rev. R. L. McNair, pastor of the bride, officiating, with Mrs. McNair at the piano, playing during the ceremony. Mrs. Jones is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James P Scruggs, formerly of Concord, Depot but now of Elkton. Mr. Jones is a successful farmer of Spring Mills, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Balden Jones. At present Mr. and Mrs. Jones will reside at the latter's home at Spring Mill.

Miriam Martin

Miriam Martin 11-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hiriam Martin was laid away in the family grave yard at S. R. Martin's Thursday. She had been sick for quite a while, but not confined to bed. The services were conducted by Rev. J. J. Clark. The flower-bearers were: Misses Vivian Clark, Louise Drinkard, Eunice, Virginia and Estelle Martin, Virginia and Blanch Moore, Mackie Laughan, Lurlain Wilmer, and Elizabeth Crews. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. Joe and Leonard Martin, Clay Bell, Eugene and Howlet Drinkard and Edwin Moore.

Delightful Party

On last Friday evening Miss Onormoreer Wright entertained a number of her friends in honor of her guests Messrs. William Stratton and George D. Witt, of Roseland. Many games were played after which delightful refreshments were served. Those present were: Misses Blanche Babcock, Evelyn Robertson, Margaret Smith, Frankie McKinney Mary Trent, Annie Purnell, Rachel and Sarah Dickerdum, Louie Cawthorn, Hallie Burnette, Lonelle Hamilton, Lucy LeGrand, Mary Jamerson, Sadie and Virginia Reynolds, Florence Gregory, Messrs.
